NYC
Recycles

Our Mission

ReuseNYC is a membership-based association of New York City nonprofits that accept and redistribute donated goods.

The mission of ReuseNYC is to support the work of our member organizations, as well as promote the social, environmental, and economic benefits that reuse provides to local communities.

ReuseNYC is a program of the NYC Center for Materials Reuse, which is fully funded by the NYC Department of Sanitation's Bureau of Waste Prevention, Reuse and Recycling.

Our Members

ReuseNYC members vary widely in both mission and size, providing a wide spectrum of services to New Yorkers. Members include:

- Thrift stores
- Clothing banks
- Social service providers
- Creative arts programs
- Commercial waste prevention programs

Why Reuse?

Reuse is the practice of using an item more than once. Some items may be used multiple times, by different people, over a span of many years. Extending the useful life of items through reuse keeps materials out of the waste stream and conserves the energy and resources required to produce new items.

- Reduce overall consumption
- REUSE what is available
- Recycle what remains

Impact

In 2013, ReuseNYC members diverted over 16.6 million pounds of items from NYC's waste stream! These items include everything from clothing to construction materials, office supplies, furniture, books, electronics, household goods, and more.

When you donate to, shop at, or volunteer with a ReuseNYC member, you are helping these organizations:

- Reduce NYC's solid waste
- Provide economic savings to New Yorkers
- Offer social services to local communities

New York Cares

About: New York Cares brings volunteer support to more than 850 nonprofit agencies, public schools, and other deserving organizations throughout the five boroughs of New York City. New York Cares works with each organization to identify their pressing needs, creates projects where volunteers can make a meaningful difference, and then recruits and deploys teams of volunteers to help meet those needs.

Along with this, New York Cares also runs the City's largest coat drive annually, from November through February, which collects gently used winter coats from caring New Yorkers and distributes them to children, women, and men at homeless shelters, community organizations, and agencies serving seniors.

Accepted Donations: New York Cares accepts new and gently used coats of all sizes (for children, women, and men) each year from late fall through the winter season.

Xavier Mission

About: Xavier Mission is the community outreach organization operating out of the Church of St. Francis Xavier in the Chelsea neighborhood of Manhattan.

Begun in 1983 by parishioners of the church, the Mission served the community for 29 years through the parish. In August of 2012, Xavier Mission officially incorporated as an independent 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization. While officially independent from the Church of St. Francis Xavier, the ideals upon which the Mission was founded still remain: striving to care for those whom society has rejected, empowering them to reach their full potential, and standing with them in fighting for justice.
