<td>Change construction regulations so schools in New York City cost the same as elsewhere.</td>
<td>DOE, DDC</td>
<td>Launched</td>
<td>Done</td>
<td>The merger of SCA and DOE’s Division of School Facilities was successful in changing construction regulations. Prior to 2003, construction bid prices were $438 per square foot. In 2003 the price per square foot was $314 and in 2004 the bid price per square foot was $302. Due to inflation in the city construction market, the cost has increased since that time to $378 per square foot. Without the achieved changes in the school construction regulations, costs today would be $604 per square foot.</td>

<td>DOHMH, DPR, DSNY</td>
<td>Launched</td>
<td>Done*</td>
<td>The Mayor's Rodent Initiative (2003 – 2005) provided 8,000 rodent-proof trash containers and other services in problem areas. In 2005, DOHMH launched the Rodent Academy to provide training in pest management to City staff. In response to lessons learned from the Mayor’s Rodent Initiative, DOHMH is implementing an “indexing” pilot program in the Bronx. This indexing will proactively assess neighborhoods for rodent infestations. The data obtained will be used more effectively combat rodent infestations.</td>

<td>HPD is working with DCP and other land holding agencies, including NYCHA, DPR, HHC, and DOE to assess new housing development opportunities. In November 2006, a development team was designated for Arverne East, a 97-acre site to be developed on City-owned land that will consist of 47-acres of housing and commercial space, a 35-acre nature preserve and a 15-acre dune preserve. Forty-three percent of the residential units will be reserved for households with incomes no greater than $92,170 for a family of four. As part of PlaNYC, the City will look to increase capacity for housing supply by using government-owned land more efficiently, creating new housing on public land, expanding co-location with government agencies, and adapting outdated buildings to new uses.</td>

HPD is working with council members to conduct roof-to-cellar inspections of problem buildings. Also in 2005, the Mayor and HPD announced the Bushwick Initiative, a two-year collaboration between HPD, other agencies, Assemblmembver Vito Lopez, local nonprofits and community residents. HPD began by conducting a comprehensive survey of every building and lot in the target area - 955 sites in total. The number of residential buildings rated in poor condition in the target area decreased by over 50% in the first year of the initiative. In April 2007, HPD and the City Council agreed on legislation to establish an Alternative Enforcement Program that each year will target 200 of the worst residential buildings in the city for intensive inspections and emergency repairs.</td>

<td>While the Administration does not support using one-shots in general, the City was forced to borrow funds for operating expenses to close the FY03 budget gap. The Administration is using extraordinary one-time resources from the current real estate and Wall Street booms to address the multi-billion dollar budget gaps in the out years of the Financial Plan. The City has put $2.5 billion into a Retiree Health Benefit Trust Fund to pay for the future health care costs of retirees, has funded $200 million per year of Pay-As-You-Go capital in the City’s budget, and is this year retiring $1.3 billion of debt not due to be paid until future fiscal years.</td>
