Medical and Psychological Assessment: Medical and psychological guidelines have been established for the position of Environmental Police Officer. You will be examined to determine whether you can perform the essential functions of an Environmental Police Officer. Additionally, you will be expected to continue to perform the essential functions of an Environmental Police Officer throughout your career and may, therefore, be medically and psychologically tested periodically throughout your career. Where appropriate, a reasonable accommodation will be provided for a person with a disability to enable him or her to take these medical and psychological examinations, and/or to perform the essential functions of the job.

Physical Testing: Physical standards have been established for the position of Environmental Police Officer. You will be required to pass a qualifying physical test, and may be required to undergo periodic physical testing throughout your career.
Drug Testing: You must pass a drug screening prior to appointment as part of a pre-employment screening process, and you will be subject to drug testing during Police Academy Training and as part of the medical examination at the end of probation. You may again be drug tested on a random basis at any time during your employment or as a prerequisite for assignment to higher levels. Any Environmental Police Officer found in possession of, or using illegal drugs, or who fails, refuses, or attempts to evade a drug test, will be terminated. The Department of Environmental Protection has a strict zero tolerance policy concerning illegal drug use. Individuals who are considering applying for positions as an Environmental Police Officer are expected to conform their behavior to this policy well before they begin the application process.

License Requirement: On the date of appointment as an Environmental Police Officer, you must possess a motor vehicle driver license valid in the State of New York. This license must be maintained for the duration of your employment.

Residency: By the date of appointment, you must be a resident of the City of New York or of Westchester, Dutchess, Greene, Sullivan, Putnam, Delaware, Ulster, Rockland, Orange or Schoharie counties.

English Requirement: You must be able to understand and be understood in English.

Proof of Identity: Under the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, you must be able to prove your identity and your right to obtain employment in the United States prior to employment with the City of New York.

THE TEST: You will be given a multiple-choice test at a computer terminal. Your score on this test will be used to determine your place on an eligible list. You must achieve a score of at least 70% to pass the test. The multiple-choice test may include questions which may require the use of any of the following abilities:

- Written Comprehension: understanding written sentences and paragraphs. An Environmental Police Officer might use this ability when reviewing an incident report.

- Written Expression: using English words or sentences in writing so that others will understand. An Environmental Police Officer might use this ability when recording the details of an unusual incident.

- Memorization: remembering information, such as words, numbers, pictures and procedures. Pieces of information can be remembered by themselves or with other pieces of information. An Environmental Police Officer might use this ability to recall the details of a suspect or vehicle that is fleeing the scene of a crime.

- Problem Sensitivity: being able to tell when something is wrong or is likely to go wrong. It includes being able to identify the whole problem as well as elements of the problem. An Environmental Police Officer might use this ability to choose an appropriate action when attending to an individual who is in need of medical assistance.

- Deductive Reasoning: applying general rules to specific problems and coming up with logical answers. It involves deciding if an answer makes sense. An Environmental Police Officer might use this ability when deciding if an individual who has been accused of trespassing should be arrested.

- Inductive Reasoning: combining separate pieces of information, or specific answers to problems, to form general rules or conclusions. It involves the ability to think of possible reasons for why things go together. An Environmental Police Officer might use this ability to interpret the intentions of departmental guidelines and protocols, and how they relate to an incident.

- Information Ordering: following correctly a rule or set of rules or actions in a certain order. The rule or set of rules used must be given. Things or actions to be put in order can include numbers, letters, words, pictures, procedures, sentences, and mathematical or logical operations. An Environmental Police Officer might use this ability when deciding the next appropriate action to take when confronting a disorderly individual.

- Spatial Orientation: determining where you are in relation to the location of some object or where the object is in relation to you. An Environmental Police Officer might use this ability when interpreting a road map to decide the most efficient route to take to the site of a crime.

- Visualization: imagining how something would look when it is moved around or when its parts are moved or rearranged. It requires the forming of mental images of how patterns or objects would look after certain changes, such as unfolding or rotation. One has to predict how an object, set of objects, or pattern will appear after the changes have been carried out. An Environmental Police Officer might use this ability when comparing the facial characteristics of a suspect to a photograph on file.

THE TEST RESULTS: If you pass the multiple-choice test, your name will be placed in final score order on an eligible list and you will be given a list number. You will be notified by mail of your test results. If you meet all requirements and conditions, you will be considered for appointment when your name is reached on the eligible list.
