Preservation Committee

Gabrielle Palitz, Chairperson

5. 176- 182 West 82nd Street (Columbus-Amsterdam Avenues.) Application to the Landmarks Preservation Commission to combine four buildings into one, reducing the number of dwelling units from twenty to eleven; to remove the fire escape and restore the West 82nd Street elevation; to replace windows; to lower the entrance by one step to allow the addition of a ramp for ADA accessibility; to remove six feet from the entire rear of the building and create an outdoor terrace and deck; and to add a penthouse.

Jay Adolf announced that there have been significant changes in the proposal since the committee review. The LPC review meeting was delayed.

The project is on the south side of West 82nd Street from the corner of Amsterdam Avenue west towards Columbus. Four buildings, which are vacant, will be combined. There were a total of 22 apartments, after renovation there will be 11 apartments. The proposal includes a façade change on all sides of the building and roof additions. The committee was satisfied that the front façade was appropriate. They are removing part of the rear wall and putting in appropriate windows. The two-story rooftop addition that includes two terraces is problematic. It is visible from the street from some angles, but not all angles. There was concern about the bulk of the roof-top structure. There was a suggestion by the committee that the roof addition be moved further to the west side of the building. It was approved by the committee. There were no zoning issues, the changes are as of a matter of right.

Mark Diller offered an amendment that the rooftop addition portion of the resolution be a disapproval because it is too bulky and it impinges on the backyard. Accepted as friendly.

Public Comment:

- Jim Berman, West 82nd Street, read a statement from the Historic District Council asking LPC to deny the application. First application was rejected. A two-story addition is not appropriate for a building of this size. The impact on the neighborhood would be large. It will create shadows in all backyards in the area. The proposed drawing was significantly different than the mock up.
- Deanne Eagle, West 82nd Street Realty Tenants Corp. This addition will change the tenor of the neighborhood. It is big. It will tower over the neighboring roofs. We urge you not to approve. A letter from Kevin Bacon and Karina Steinberg was submitted in opposition.
- Kelly Carroll, Landmark West. The addition was described by the architect as “invisible,” which is not accurate. The doors should not be removed and replaced, they are historical, the stoop would be cut through. The four buildings create a visual rhythm that will be destroyed.

Board Discussion:

- In response to a question, Page Cowley described the lift as one often used at a doctor's office for one to three steps. It is a platform that folds and unfolds and travels on its own guardrail. It is to be used only by a handicapped person. Floor or wall mounted. It is considered not intrusive.
- The building will be improved by the changes, but it is not being preserved. It's a mixture of materials that does not respect the original. It would cost more to change the façade then to restore it.
- Our goal is to focus on if this application will result on a renovation that is appropriate. Not if it is to our taste or how we would design it.
- The Brownstone Manual has been prepared by LPC as a guideline. The handbook is standard in every preservation school. It indicates that buildings should use resources where treatments are less drastic and fill more seamlessly for a restored effect.
- One overriding issue is if this bulked-up building fits the neighborhood. This treatment does not preserve the building or the district.
- This building was a tenement and was not beautiful. For the past ten years it's been derelict and an eyesore. This looks like a positive solution. The ramp is a better solution than a lift because it won't break and lifts can break. This building as it is depreciates the value of the entire block.

After discussion, the vote took place in three parts:

5A Front façade - the resolution to approve was not adopted.

VOTE: 13-16-1-0

5B Rear and side facades - the resolution to approve was not adopted.

VOTE: 26-0-2-0

9. 152 West 88th Street (Columbus-Amsterdam Avenues.) Application to the Landmarks Preservation Commission for possible window replacement on the front façade and for rear-yard and roof-top additions.

Committee member Jay Adolf commented that donuts are built upon by right, so the committee struggles on how much focus should be on the donut for appropriateness. LPC has given direction that they are more concerned with appropriateness than previously.

Friendly amendment, accepted, that CB7 call on LPC to return for our comment any revision on this application put before them.

After deliberation, the application was voted upon in three parts.

10. 79th Street Boat Basin, Riverside Park. NYC Department of Parks & Recreation's proposed design for the complete replacement of A-Dock, known as the Public Pier, on the upstream side of the marina at the 79th Street Boat Basin. A-Dock will continue to serve as the facility's Public Pier to include a kayak launch, an access point for smaller vessels moored north of the marina and a deep water mooring at the outer most slip.

Board Discussion

- The ice breakers and the position of the railing position were brought up in committee. Have they been resolved? The committee has asked Parks to consider three changes: Non-electric lighting, moving the railing (which was placed in a dangerous location for those docking) and modifying the kayak gate because the dimensions were too narrow. Parks has responded by changing the kayak gate dimensions. They are not planning on changing the railing and will monitor what lighting will be available to them at the time of building.

- On the tour with Council Member Gale Brewer, the engineer stated that the ice breakers should be renovated at the same time.
- Do we have the ability to influence the decisions on what projects money is allocated to? In this time when less and less money is available for public projects and services, is this the best use of the money?
- Response: The committee and CB7 are presented projects that have been selected and developed by the Parks Department. We seldom have input until the project design is presented for our comment. They are responsive at that stage and often incorporate our comments. If we voted down this project for reasons of financial priority, the money for this project would be reallocated by Parks and likely not benefit our area. In the case of renovating the public dock, very large boats dock on a daily basis and that brings in revenue. Also it is used by Clearwater for educational purposes, a public use.

After deliberation, the resolution to approve was adopted.

12. Unenclosed Café Renewal Applications:

Board Discussion: Turkvaz has been allowing their outdoor café to exceed the correct dimensions and even wrapping around the corner. It was agreed that a letter will be sent to the restaurant reminding them of the limits and enclosing pictures.

Public Comment:

Alan Flacks, 13 West 100th Street. Turkvaz's outdoor café has been extending beyond the area allowed. Instead of a letter, why not disapprove it? Why do you allow wraparounds only in special situations like Silver Moon? I believe that Silver Moon is in compliance.

After deliberation, the resolution to approve the applications was adopted.

November 13, 2012

1. Presentation by Upper West Side Streets Renaissance on proposed locations for bike racks.

Lisa Sladkus of UWSSR introduced Andrew Balmer who gave a presentation on the survey of possible spaces for bike rack placements from 59th St. to 110th St. and from Broadway to Columbus Avenue. Andrew Balmer provided a printout of a spreadsheet made by UWSSR showing the locations of the proposed bike rack placements and notation regarding replies received from the mailing to building owners.

The ensuing discussion clarified questions that were raised by the Committee and the public as follows: Out of 136 letters sent by the surveyor to property owners and businesses in front of which racks could be installed 45 responded negatively and those locations were excluded from the list. About 5 responded positively, mostly by voice mail. The rest (86) were considered as positive. When this assumption was contested explanation was that this was based on human nature, that people are eager to express disagreement if it affects them personally and not expend time for a response if not affected. There will always be some exceptions, of course.

There were also comments that property owners do not own the sidewalk but their opinion should be considered along with the opinions of other stakeholders...

Racks are of circle type design, already in use; will be installed on the sidewalk parallel to the street; bikes would be parked parallel too. Most restaurants use their own bike racks.

Amsterdam BID asked for 3-4 racks per block and considers them beneficial for businesses and the community. The same was expressed by members of the public.

DOT representative clarified that the removal of a rack from a specific location is possible and has been done based on complaints. Also, that racks are most effectively placed when Community Board gives an approved list which is taken as expressed need for placement.

Dan Zweig expressed that this list should be reviewed in the field by the committee over the next month and considered for resolution at the December Transportation meeting.

A resolution was proposed to approve the list immediately for presentation to the full board in December.

Resolution for immediate approval was based on: a) awareness of the need for providing bike parking in the neighborhood, b) the fact that it did not want to verify each proposed site for a rack on this comprehensive list, c) that a removal of a rack from some location that later becomes problematic is a matter of practice in the City, d) the committee did not want to further delay bike racks installation,

Resolution to approve 91 bike rack locations:

Committee: 8-2-0-0. Non-committee Board members 3-0-0-0

2. Proposed "bike corral" at NW corner of Broadway and 105th Street

Presentation given by NYC Bicycle Program, DOT representative Jennifer Harris-Hernandez.

The discussion brought up further details:

creating a bike corral requires an application because it involves maintenance by the applicant, mainly cleaning, because the street cleaning vehicles and the snow plows cannot reach the space that is protected by either big pots or bollards. This corral provides parking for 8 bikes by utilizing 4 bike racks of the circular design applied throughout the City. It is placed on Broadway, next to the crosswalk on NW corner at the 105th St.

The owner of the restaurant "Henry's", Henry Rinehart, applied and took the maintenance on himself, promised that his workforce will keep their bikes in the building not in the corral; requested four planters, pots as a protection for the corral instead of usual two; will take care of the plants in them which will beautify the street and the space in front of his restaurant, and stressed the security feature of the corral instead of the space which was frequently used as an illegal parking space or an access point to a parking behind it. He communicated with the public and businesses around- responses were positive. He also submitted a 120 signatures petition from the neighborhood with all DOT criteria required.

There were many requests for providing a possibility to park more than 8 bikes at such a large space, but the presenter said that they looked into other cities experience, domestically and abroad, and did not find better solution than here presented. There were also many comments regarding the large size of planters - they are too big and are taking space instead of bicycles. In the presented picture, one third of the space is taken by planters. Suggested fixed smaller bollards were countered by the presenter with the argument that Fire Department prefers planters because they can move them if needed...

One change to the presented proposal was accepted - that on the South side of the corral only one planter should remain and that it should be pushed towards the street to be as close to the corner of the corral to protect pedestrians on the crosswalk from the vehicles that are going South on Broadway and turning right into 105th St. Due to the angle of 105 with respect to Broadway, this should leave space to place more bicycles in the street space being used for the corral. DOT will have engineers revise the plan and present a revised plan to the board before the next full board meeting.

Dan Zweig said that no prior notice for this proposal had been made and that the item should be given notice and a subsequent committee review the following month. The chairs heard about this request for the first time only the day prior to the meeting and no notification online or otherwise had been made. The presentation was accepted for the meeting only in an effort to get information from the applicant earlier and allow more time for consideration by the committee since this was the first application of its kind to be made in CD7.

Despite the lack of notice, a resolution to approve the revised corral and to ask DOT to find more locations to place bicycle corrals was proposed and seconded:

 - o Not enough room on the sidewalk as exhibits take up both sides of the single sidewalk.
 - o Competition from the Fair hurts Columbus Ave. Merchants.

Simon Gaon, current vendor for the Fair

- o “Only Saturdays” will not work because of vendors having to transport goods to the UWS from outside areas and also certain Jewish individuals will not have a chance to frequent the Fair.
- o Merchandise is inspected and reviewed to make sure it is not being imported from other countries and not manufactured.

Committee Discussion

- Klari Neuwelt
 - o The community has changed over the years and the Fair no longer benefits the community in a way it once did.
 - o Recommend passing a resolution to not extend an RFP for this location.
- Ken Coughlin
 - o Limit the Fair to Saturdays, limit the vendors, and restrict the Fair to local vendors.
- Marc Darin
 - o Opposed to having a Fair at this location.
- Elizabeth Starkey
 - o If the committee tries to limit to Saturdays only, then it should be clear that no additional weekends should be added to the Fair.
- Evan Rosing
 - o Concerned that the Parks Department will not take the community’s feedback and complaints into account in the remaining period of current contract.

RESOLUTION: Request that DPR not issue any new RFP for an arts and crafts fair at this location after the expiration of the current license.

Topic 2: Central Park at West 106th Street. Presentation on a proposal to daylight Strangers' Gate at Central Park's West 106th Street entrance, and in the process make this entrance safer for walkers and bicyclists.

- Peter Frishauf
 - o Presentation to “daylight” Strangers’ Gate at 106th and CPW by removing parking spaces in front of the entrance for aesthetic purposes and safety of pedestrians and bicyclists.

Community Comments

- Bob Wyman
 - o Suggestion to switch parking spaces with the bus stop north of the entrance. However there are certain concerns that DOT will not put a bus stop in the middle of an intersection.
- Bob Prudhomme
 - o Recommends that Peter first provide notice to neighborhood buildings and block associations and possibly work with them in coming up with a solution.
 - o Not in favor of the proposal, because there are concerns that school and tourist buses will try to park in the space which will make matters worse. Also doesn’t want to lose parking spots available to neighbors.
- Linda Prudhomme

- o Concern from residents about losing parking spaces.

Committee Discussion: The committee was generally favorable to the proposal, but saw some complications arising from eliminating parking spaces, possible take-over of the vacated spaces by tour buses and school buses. Next steps: Raise the issue with the co-chairs of the Transportation Committee and have a joint meeting regarding the issue.
