What is the OATH Hearings Division?

The NYC Office of Administrative Trials and Hearings (OATH) is an independent administrative law court that is responsible for conducting trials and hearings on cases brought by New York City's agencies, boards or commissions.

The OATH Hearings Division conducts hearings on alleged violations issued by the City's various enforcement agencies, such as the Departments of Buildings, Sanitation, Health, Consumer Affairs and the Taxi and Limousine Commission.

Why did I get a Summons or Notice?

Your Summons or Notice was issued by a NYC agency responsible for enforcing the law. OATH is an administrative court and does not conduct inspections or issue summonses. If you have questions about why you received the Summons or Notice, contact the City enforcement agency that issued you the Summons or Notice.

What can I do if I get a Summons or Notice?

If you receive a Summons or Notice you may be able to:

- Admit to the summons and pay the penalty. Check the notice or summons to see if you can admit and pay the penalty;
- Accept a settlement or stipulation from the enforcement agency if one is offered;
- Contest the charges by participating in an OATH hearing.

Accepting a Settlement or Stipulation Offer:

In order to accept the settlement or stipulation offer you must admit to the charges, waive your right to a hearing, pay the settlement amount offered by the enforcement agency and comply with the terms of the offer.

Contest the Charges by Having a Hearing:

OATH provides convenient ways for you to contest alleged violations issued by the City's enforcement agencies without having to come to an OATH Hearings Center for a hearing in person.

Nearly all summonses issued by the Departments of Sanitation, Health & Mental Hygiene, Environmental Protection, Transportation, Parks & Recreation, as well as some summonses issued by the Departments of Buildings and Fire can be contested at your convenience with one or more of the hearing methods listed below. When contesting summonses using these remote hearing methods OATH must receive your defense on or before the scheduled hearing date.

If you do not pay, accept a settlement or stipulation, or contest your summons by phone, online, or by mail, you must appear in person for your hearing.

What Should I Expect at an In-person OATH Hearing?

- Although you do not need an attorney, you may hire one at your own expense or you may authorize a representative to appear on your behalf.

- Come to OATH on the date and time listed on the front of your summons.
- Bring any papers, photos, and witnesses to support your case.
- When you arrive, sign in and wait for a hearing officer to call your case.
- The hearing will take place in a hearing room before a hearing officer.
- The hearing officer will swear you in and take your testimony and evidence. All hearings are audio-recorded.
- The hearing officer will tell you if he or she is able to issue the decision in your case immediately. If so, you can return to the waiting room to wait for the hearing officer's decision.
- Otherwise, OATH will send the decision by mail to you at the address that OATH has on record and to the agency that charged you with the alleged violation.
