DISCLAIMER: The NYC Department of City Planning does not offer Sponsorship, of any kind, for any type of employment opportunity.

THE AGENCY:
The Department of City Planning (DCP) plans for the strategic growth and development of the City through ground-up planning with communities, the development of land use policies and zoning regulations applicable citywide and sharing its perspectives on growth and community needs with sister agencies in collaboration with the Office of Management and Budget (OMB).

DCP’s six strategic objectives include: (a) catalyze long-term neighborhood improvement through integrated planning and targeted accompanying public investments; (b) encourage housing production, affordability, and quality; (c) promote economic development and job growth; (d) enhance resiliency and sustainability of neighborhoods; (e) ensure integrity, timeliness and responsiveness in land use reviews; and, (f) supply objective data and expertise to a broad range of planning functions and stakeholders.

Central to its mission, DCP supports the City Planning Commission in its annual review of approximately 450 land use applications. The Department also works closely with OMB in developing the Ten-Year Capital Strategy, and helping administer the Neighborhood Development Fund, geared toward ensuring that growing neighborhoods undergoing rezoning have accompanying infrastructure investments.

The New York City Department of City Planning is a great place to work – cultivating intellectual inspiration, professional development and creativity. Visit our website at www.nyc.gov/planning to access the full listing of job opportunities and to learn more about our great agency.

THE DIVISION:
The Population Division is responsible for the compilation, analysis and dissemination of census and related federal, state and local data for city agencies, local communities and the media. It is the city’s hub of expertise in census data analyses and dissemination. Within the Department, the Population Division provides data for a variety of local and citywide planning studies, environmental review analyses, and capital planning strategies. The division also provides other city agencies and outside organizations with data to address questions involving needs assessment, program planning and targeting, and policy formulation. This includes the development of current population estimates and short- and long-term population projections. Finally, the Population Division is leading the evaluation and analysis of recently released data from the 2020 Census.

THE ROLE:
The Population Division is looking for a person with a geographic and quantitative skill set to perform economic and sociodemographic analyses in a spatial context. This involves the compilation, mapping, and analysis of vital statistics, census, and related data for a host of division initiatives.

The successful candidate will:

- Prepare written analyses on New York City’s population using data from the decennial censuses, the American Community Survey, and state and local sources to provide demographic and economic insights into important planning-related issues
- Conduct GIS analyses to assess spatial components of socioeconomic conditions and trends
- Produce data visualizations for use in presentations and online applications
- Create and execute programs to download, process, and construct datasets from a variety of federal, state, and local sources
- Perform quality assurance of data files and document work procedures

PREFERRED SKILLS:

- Strong research and analytical skills and a facility with numerical data
- Firm conceptual understanding of major data sources such as the decennial census and American Community Survey
- Strong GIS and ArcGIS skills, including ArcGIS Online tools (e.g., StoryMaps)
- Familiarity with data visualization packages such as Carto or Tableau
- Proficiency with R, SPSS, or similar software
- Capacity to work with others as part of a research team

MINIMUM REQUIREMENTS:
Authorization to work in the United States is required for this position. NYC Department of City Planning does not provide sponsorship for international employees. Applicants are responsible for ensuring that they meet all minimum qualifying requirements for this position, at the time of application.

1. A master's degree from an accredited college or university in economics, statistics, finance, management, business administration, public administration, public policy or related field; or

2. A baccalaureate degree from an accredited college or university, including or supplemented by 24 semester credits in one or more of the course areas of economics, statistics, finance, management, mathematics, business administration, public administration, and public policy, 12 semester credits of which must have been in economics; and one year of satisfactory full-time experience in one or more of the fields of finance; economic, fiscal or statistical research; policy analysis; or quantitative, business, market or financial analysis. Graduate semester credits in any of the areas described in "1" above may be substituted for the undergraduate semester credits on the basis that each 3 graduate semester credits may be substituted for 6 of the required undergraduate semester credits.
Special Note
To be eligible for placement in Assignment Level II individuals must have, in addition to meeting the minimum requirements, at least one additional year of full-time experience listed in "2" above.

Special Note
To be eligible for placement in Assignment Level III individuals must have, in addition to meeting the minimum requirements, at least two additional years of full-time experience listed in "2" above.
