The New York City Taxi and Limousine Commission (TLC) wishes to notify medallion owners that, until such time as the Commercial Motor Vehicle Tax (CMVT) billing and collection function is transferred back to the NYC Department of Finance, the TLC will continue to collect the tax as part of the medallion renewal process.

Medallion owners should be aware that they either have received or will be receiving medallion renewal packages that include an invoice for the CMVT in the amount of $2,000, which will cover each medallion for the entirety of the TLC's two-year licensing period. An additional interim billing for Medallion Licenses that expire in 2013 in the amount of $1,000 was also recently mailed. This is for the current 2012 Tax Year and should be paid to the TLC.

It is requested that all medallion owners follow all instructions included in their renewal packages or interim billing notice for payment of the CMVT as well as for all other necessary processes related to medallion renewal.

Any questions on this or other TLC-related matters may be directed to the TLC Call Center via the City's 311 Government Services Hotline.
