

NEW YORK CITY TAXI AND LIMOUSINE COMMISSION

Notice of Promulgation of Rules

Notice is hereby given in accordance with Section 1043(b) of the New York City Charter (“Charter”) that the Taxi and Limousine Commission (“TLC”) promulgates amendments to its rules regarding its renewal compliance deadlines, the elimination of the probationary period, and other administrative updates.

These rules are promulgated pursuant to Sections 1043 and 2303 of the Charter and Section 19-503 of the Administrative Code of the City of New York.

These rules were published on December 21, 2015, for public comment in the City Record. On January 21, 2016, a public hearing was held by the TLC at its offices at 33 Beaver Street, 19th Floor, New York, New York, 10004. These rules were approved at a TLC Commission Meeting on January 21, 2016. These rules will take effect 30 days after publication.

STATEMENT OF BASIS AND PURPOSE OF RULES

The TLC is amending its rules to streamline renewal compliance deadlines for drivers of Taxicabs and For-Hire Vehicles, lengthen license periods from two to three years for all types of driver licenses, eliminate probationary licenses for drivers of Taxicabs and For-Hire Vehicles, change specifications for driver protection markings, remove the option of paying fines and settlements in cash, require all license applicants to provide an e-mail address, and require all applicants whose driver’s license have been issued in other states to provide an abstract of their driving record from the other state. Together, these rule changes will significantly reduce the regulatory burden on taxi drivers.

Streamlining Renewal Compliance Deadlines for Driver Licenses

In addition to continuous DMV and criminal record monitoring and annual drug testing, each time a driver is up for a license renewal there are several requirements he or she must satisfy and TLC must review to ensure that the driver is fit to remain licensed. To allow drivers sufficient time to satisfy these renewal requirements, the TLC mails the renewal application package to licensees 90 to 120 days prior to the expiration date of the license.

While drivers can complete some requirements shortly after receiving the renewal application, others cannot be completed until the driver is no more than 30 or 60 days away from his or her license expiration date. In particular, the short 30-day window for some requirements makes it harder for drivers to complete all requirements on time and for TLC to review the completed application and return a renewal license to the driver before the license expires.

The promulgated rule creates a uniform 90-day window for completing all renewal requirements. Drivers have frequently and specifically requested that the TLC align the time periods of these requirements, and the TLC believes this streamlined compliance deadline process will better enable renewing applicants to meet their driver license renewal deadlines

Streamlining and Extending the Driver License Cycle

Currently, qualified Drivers of Taxicabs and For-Hire Vehicles are first issued one-year probationary licenses and thereafter are issued two-year licenses. Drivers of Paratransits and Commuter Vans do not receive one-year probationary licenses and are issued two-year licenses at initial licensure. The Administrative Code of the City of New York (Administrative Code), §19-505(g) states that driver licenses may be issued for terms up to three years.

These promulgated rules create a standard three-year license term for all drivers. The TLC believes that increasing the license term from two to three years will result in greater convenience for drivers because they would need to go through the steps associated with renewing a license less frequently. The three-year term also aligns the renewal process with the defensive driving course requirement, which drivers must satisfy every three years.

Eliminating Probationary Licenses for Drivers

Upon reviewing the probationary license program, TLC concluded that it is of limited utility relative to the administrative burdens it imposes on drivers and TLC. For example, in July 2015 TLC reviewed renewal applications from 6,062 probationary licensees and only one was disqualified from renewal based on probationary license criteria. In the first eleven months of 2015, only 65 probationary licensees—of the tens of thousands reviewed—were not renewed based on the probationary license review criteria.

Since TLC has many other programs in place that continually monitor licensees and ensure they remain fit for licensure, the probationary period is unnecessary. These programs include: (1) ongoing DMV record and serious crash monitoring (which trigger license suspensions and revocations under the Critical Driver program and other local laws); (2) TLC violation monitoring (which triggers license suspensions and revocations under the Persistent Violator program); (3) criminal record monitoring through the New York State Division of Criminal Justice (which triggers a Fitness Review process); and (4) annual drug testing. In addition, any action, including but not limited to many specifically listed in TLC's Rules, that calls into question a driver's ability to safely interact with the public prompts a Fitness Hearing that can result in revocation of the driver's license. The TLC has and will continue to monitor licensee behavior and to remove unsafe drivers from the road through all available means. Whether a driver has been on the road for two months or twenty years, if the driver does not meet TLC's standards, TLC has the necessary tools to suspend or revoke the license and prevent the driver from transporting the public.

Protecting Licensed Drivers

On October 22, 2014, the City Council passed Local Law 55 of 2014, otherwise known as the Driver Protection Act, which requires that signs be placed in the rear compartments of taxicabs and for hire-vehicles informing passengers of penalties for assaulting drivers. This law was designed to address the unfortunate reality that driving a taxi or livery vehicle can be dangerous work. Mayor de Blasio signed the bill on November 5, 2014, and it went into effect on May 4, 2015.

To comply with this law, the TLC amended its rules on March 19, 2015 so that each licensed vehicle, except for black cars and luxury limousines, is required to display a mandatory “Taxi and Livery Driver Protection” sticker in its rear passenger compartment. The stickers inform passengers that assaulting a driver is punishable by up to 25 years in prison.

This promulgated rule will alter the dimensions and design of these stickers to make them more noticeable, and will provide for an optional sticker design that may be placed outside of the vehicle to further communicate that TLC-licensed drivers are protected by the law.

Removing the Option of Paying in Cash

In order to streamline TLC operations and help reduce wait times at TLC’s facilities, the promulgated rules will remove the option of paying fines and settlements in cash. The TLC currently accepts payment in cash for fines and settlements. With many other payment options available, including online payment by credit/debit card and e-check and in-person payment by credit cards, PIN-less debit cards, bank or certified checks, and corporate checks, the TLC believes it is feasible to eliminate the exposure to drivers and employees associated with cash payment and transition to an entirely cashless payment system.

Requiring All License Applicants to Provide an E-mail Address

The promulgated rule requires that all vehicle and driver license applicants, including renewal applicants, file an e-mail address with the TLC. Only FHV vehicle owners are currently required to provide an e-mail address. Requiring all licensees to file e-mail addresses with the TLC will ensure additional means of contacting licensees are available to TLC, enabling better and easier communication of important licensing information.

Out of State Driver’s License Abstracts

Finally, the promulgated rule will require all TLC driver license applicants that possess a driver’s license issued by a state other than New York to submit an abstract of his or her driving record from his or her state of residence. This is currently required of all Taxi Driver license applicants and the rule will extend that requirement to all driver license applicants to ensure that all TLC licensed drivers, not just those driving taxis, have a history of safe driving prior to TLC licensure.

These rules are authorized by Section 2303 of the Charter and Sections 19-503 of the Administrative Code.
